

You are here: Home -> Theatre Reviews -> “Frosty the Snowmanilow” Melts Hearts!

The image is a promotional banner for RELAX SPA & BEAUTY LOUNGE. On the left, the word "RELAX" is written in large, light blue, sans-serif capital letters, with "SPA & BEAUTY LOUNGE" in smaller, darker blue, sans-serif capital letters below it. Above the word "RELAX" is a stylized logo consisting of three horizontal, wavy lines. On the right side of the banner, the address "1022 N. Hollywood Way, Burbank, CA 91505" is written in white, sans-serif capital letters against a dark teal background.

“Frosty the Snowmanilow” Melts Hearts!

By Bonnie Prieuer on December 16th, 2009 No Comments Printer-Friendly

‘Winter Warlock’ (Beth Kennedy), ‘Hinkle’ (Matt Walker), ‘Karen’ (Christine Lakin) and ‘Santa’ (Jack McGee) in the Troubadour Theater Company’s “Frosty the Snowmanilow” at the Falcon Theatre.

The Troubadour Theater Company marks its 10th year performing at The Falcon Theatre with this holiday season’s run of “Frosty the Snowmanilow,” melting the hearts of one and all. Garry Marshall took the stage on opening night, following the upbeat show, to proudly present 10 gold plaques for the first row orchestra seats—to honor the Troubadours’ dedication, talent and showmanship (or should I say snowmanship!) “Fan-i-lows,” new and old, will truly appreciate this brand new musical theater extravaganza, with fave love songs by the esteemed crooner such as “Could it be Magic,” “Can’t Smile Without You” and “Somewhere in the Night.”

Warmth, love and laughter are in the chilly, frost-bitten air, as this group of actors, comedians and musicians clown, mime, sing and dance with hilarious lyrics and original sketch material.

Cleverly juxtaposed, almost as a ‘commercial break,’ within the show, the Troubies and colorful Popsicle quartet do a medley of ad jingles, written by Barry, introduced by the number, “I Write the Songs.”

Familiar catchy tunes for products ranging from McDonalds to Coke, to Budweiser, Band-Aid and State Farm, lend a nostalgic touch.

What a special tribute this evening was for Marshall, the Falcon Theatre and the Troubadours, as they continue dedicating their lives to making people laugh, smile and sing.

“Looks like They Made it” into the hearts of their fans and will soon be seen in the feature film, “Valentine’s Day,” in theaters this February.

“Frosty the Snowmanilow” plays at The Falcon Theatre (4252 Riverside Dr., Burbank, CA) now through January 17th (Wed-Fri at 8pm, Sat at 4pm and 8pm, Sun at 4pm and 7pm). For more information, call (818) 955-8101.

Ads by Google

Hotels in North Hollywood

Great Hotels in North Hollywood
Free Internet & Kids Eat Free!
www.HolidayInn.com

San Fernando Valley Apts

Come see Newly Renovated Rentals! P.A.C. Properties-Luxury Apartments
www.pacapartments.com

Get away to California

Official Travel and Tourism site. Download a free brochure now.
VisitCalifornia.com/LosAr

Sherman Oaks Real Estate

Encino and surrounding areas San Fernando Valley homes for sale
www.lindacarreon.com

Comments are closed.

	Back to Earth Cleaning Home cleaning and organizing with a green conscience.	We begin with a FREE consultation and tailor a plan to meet your individual needs.	818-558-7404
Licensed, Insured and Bonded		backtoearthcleaning@hotmail.com	